

Re: Jam Police Radar with Cold Plasma

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2008-05/msg00011.html>

- From: "dBc" <not_necessary@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 01 May 2008 06:03:22 GMT
-

Greetings John..

Regarding:

"While the concept may be foreign or, possibly, even repugnant to you, even Google advises bottom posting:"

While I appreciate the consideration, I REALLY don't care what Google believes as "appropriate." I'm not using them now for newsgroup access and have no plans on using them for newsgroups. If you're using a newsgroup reader that lists the thread in a chronological time order, not an issue anyway. There, you see, you didn't even need to scroll down to the bottom of the listing to get the reply. Thus, not too much work for you, John.

Cheers,
Mr. Mentor

"John Fields" <jfields@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:qund14p2csvk38a0jthjjatu28s2nh65vk@xxxxxxxxxx
| On Tue, 29 Apr 2008 07:42:46 GMT, "dBc"
| <not_necessary@xxxxxxxxxx>
| wrote:
|
| >Greetings JF..
| >
| >Etiquete on Usenet – you've GOT to be kidding..
| >
| >Cheers,
| >Mr. Mentor
| >
| >The mere thought has got me chuckling, although I DO sincerely
| >appreciate the amusement.
|
| ---
| Etiquete...
|
| While the concept may be foreign or, possibly, even repugnant
to you,

Re: Jam Police Radar with Cold Plasma

| even Google advises bottom posting:

| From:

| <http://groups.google.com/support/bin/answer.py?answer=12348&topic=250>

| "Summarize what you're following up.

| When you click "Reply" under "show options" to follow up an existing

| article, Google Groups includes the full article in quotes, with the

| cursor at the top of the article. Tempting though it is to just start

| typing your message, please STOP and do two things first.

| Look at the quoted text and remove parts that are irrelevant.

| Then, go to the BOTTOM of the article and start typing there.

| Doing this makes it much easier for your readers to get through your

| post. They'll have a reminder of the relevant text before your

| comment, but won't have to re-read the entire article.

| And if your reply appears on a site before the original article does,

| they'll get the gist of what you're talking about."

| Note that "following up" implies trailing instead of leading.

| JF

.