What does it matter which? Isn't the laughter the goal, after all? ;-)

I'll never forget Kermit the Frog, one of my heroes, in a uniquely poignant(sp) moment, in "The Muppet Movie." The line was, "Millions Of People Happy..." And I swear on my Mother's grave, that sock puppet had stars in his eyes, theatrically speaking.

But that has always resonated with me as a pretty cool life goal:
"Millions of people happy."

So, I try to aspire to "class clown", while also attempting to promote my own particular brand of trans-meta-para-dyno-infra-philosopho-ergono-radio-femto-gefille-preposto-scientific quasiknowledge, that can only be found within, underneath the noise of the voices that are already directing you, especially vehemently, to resist your own awakenss, which means the uncreation of the evil, which to [ERRRNT - LOST CARRIER]

And I betcha "not get killed by some wacko empire builder's armies" is only the tip of the iceberg as to possibilities for happiness worldwide.

I know it's right up there in the top thing of my agenda. %-}

Cheers!
