

Re: VOTE FOR BUSH!

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2004-11/0779.html>

---

From: Fred Bloggs (nospam_at_nospam.com)

Date: 11/02/04

Date: Tue, 02 Nov 2004 13:52:15 GMT

John Fields wrote:

> I agree. Even "knowing" the facts doesn't convey license to insult, > and destructive criticism doesn't do anything but help to vent the > frustration of the impotent criticizer.
>

All I am hearing from this sorry-assed excuse for a commander-in-chief is a bunch of whining about how "hard" it was for *him* to make the decision to go to war. There are many other issues where the little wimp retreats into complaining how hard things are for him and he then pretends to educate us on the qualities a good President should have while never claiming to possess those qualities himself. You might get a clue from all this ego perspective he blithers, that we have a seriously defective individual as President. Bush's own words are that war is "political capital" to be used to advance his agenda, and he criticized his own father for not cashing in on the war he fought. You may think it's brave to demonstrate a total lack of respect for humanity, but I call that sickness, and this has nothing to do with pacifism.