

Re: Why -48V for telephone lines, and not positive?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2004-12/0174.html>

From: Winfield Hill (hill_a_at_t_rowland-dotties-harvard-dot.s-edu)

Date: 11/30/04

Date: 30 Nov 2004 14:35:12 -0800

JeffM wrote...

>

>> when this stuff was invented

>

> Yup. Stroger Switches were invented in 1884--by an undertaker.

Do you think they used -48V back then?

--

Thanks,

- Win