

Re: Indoor motion sensor light?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2005-02/5169.html>

From: Popcorn Lover (popcorn_at_NOT-SPAM.COM)

Date: 02/23/05

Date: Tue, 22 Feb 2005 23:42:22 -0600

"worldcitizen" <duncan@koyote.com> wrote :

>
> Popcorn Lover wrote:
>> Does anyone make and sell, an inexpensive indoor tabletop motion
> sensor light
>> controller for a lamp or light to plug into?
>>
>
>
> I bought one a few years back (I think at Wal-Mart) that you just > screwed into the light bulb socket and then screwed the light bulb into > it. It works just fine and I've been using it for years to turn on the > light in the closet every time I open the door. I think I paid about > $15 bucks for it.

I asked about a table top unit and you guys are telling me everything else.

:)

--

- Popcorn Lover

If you love popcorn too, there are no popcorn groups on usenet but there IS one in Yahoo Groups:

http://groups.yahoo.com/group/Popcorn_Lovers

The internet's first-ever-in-the-world popcorn group!

Share the word on making great popcorn - come join us!