

Re: Electrolytic caps?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2005-02/6180.html>

---

From: Pooh Bear (rabbitsfriendsandrelations_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 02/28/05

Date: Mon, 28 Feb 2005 00:06:34 +0000

Melissa wrote:

> Melissa <melissa@colorado.xxx> wrote :
>
> > "Michael A. Terrell" <mike.terrell@earthlink.net> wrote :
> >
> > < > Melissa wrote:
> >
> > < > I don't recall, I'd have to go look. I have boxes of them all over the > > place in my lab, which still hasn't been unpacked since we moved.
> >
> >
> > Here, I have a huge case of these, for starters:
> > <http://dimensional.com/~melissa/photos/Cap1500uf100v.JPG>

As they're designed for hand wiring as opposed to pcb mount, I doubt many ppl would be interested in them these days.

You could always try shifting them on ebay though.

Graham