

Re: FED LOG availability?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2005-07/msg02539.html>

---

- From: Robert Baer <robertbaer@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Wed, 20 Jul 2005 10:25:20 GMT
-

Don Lancaster wrote:

Don Lancaster wrote:

Winfield Hill wrote:

Don Lancaster wrote...

What is the simplest LEGAL method an individual can access these?

The story so far: National Serial Numbers NSN's ...
Further discussion at <http://www.tinaja.com/whtnu01.asp>

Don, like your stories, but could you please pay more attention to your links so they take one to the relevant material, rather than to a high-level entry apparently intended to encourage browsing, but in fact creating frustration and a "who needs it" attitude?

Re: FED LOG availability?

July 13th entry is specific to topic.

Typo.

Should have been <http://www.tinaja.com/glib/whtnu05.asp>

BTW, you made a serious error in stating "Other useful suppliers and resources include Lumiled, The Delight, Alltronics, Maxim, Aboetech, and Odd One" in that Maxim has a bad habit of advertising vaporware - making them an UNuseful NONsupplier.

.