

Re: fence protection

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2005-12/msg01500.html>

- From: Mac <foo@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 11 Dec 2005 07:20:46 GMT
-

On Sat, 10 Dec 2005 19:03:29 +0100, theJackal wrote:

> Hello boys, girls, ladies and gentlemen.
> I live in a developing country and my property has been invaded by > armed thugs.They also tried killing me. So I have a choice of either > sleeping with a Kalashnikov or hiring an armed thug. But I don't like > getting people in trouble so I'd like to develop electric fence. Is > anybody here smart enough to understand how to do it? I will chain up > dog at night so no danger ... I keep my goat tied also and my hen > normally sleep.
> Please send good answers based on REAL Electronics and not things > like its too dangerous, get cattle protection or you can get shut up > for life.
>
>
> "Go easy on the whisky"
>
> theJackal

I once read about a plant called pain and terror. Grow a hedge of it around your property. They say it is better than barbed wire.

--Mac

.

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: fence protection
◇ From: JeffM
- References:
 - ◆ fence protection
◇ From: theJackal
- Prev by Date: Re: a low noise level opamp
- Next by Date: Re: what is transit frequency?
- Previous by thread: Re: fence protection

Re: fence protection

- Next by thread: Re: fence protection
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread