

Re: universal programmer

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2005-12/msg04191.html>

---

- From: Donald <donald@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Fri, 23 Dec 2005 15:35:35 -0700
-

Abstract Dissonance wrote:

Any ideas?

Thanks, AD

AD,

Is your goal to "build a programmer" or to "program chips".

As Joel says, buy the cheapest tools for the target processor and start learning that one.

If you don't like that one, buy the cheapest tool for your next choice.

Ect.... donald
.