

Re: Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006–01/msg02651.html>

---

- From: John Larkin <jllarkin@xx>
  - Date: Sat, 14 Jan 2006 10:10:38 –0800
-

On Sat, 14 Jan 2006 17:26:10 GMT, Rich Grise <eatmyshorts@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

>On Sat, 14 Jan 2006 05:39:56 +0000, snovotill wrote:

>

>> Has anyone had success using electronics type Super Cold Spray for >> plantar wart removal? Do not try it based upon this posting since it >> could be dangerous. I only want to hear from folks who have already >> tried. I'm thinking of using a thick plastic slab with a countersunk >> hole in it through which to apply the cold spray, the idea being to >> pool the cold spray in the hold and let it bubble away for some time.
>> I did a quick prelim test and the plastic does appear to insulate the >> cold from the surrounding skin. Another approach might be to soak a >> q–tip in the cold spray while it's touching the wart. I imagine that a >> number of repeated treatments over several days, each increasing in >> intensity, might be appropriate. Do not try it based upon this posting >> since it could be dangerous. I only want to hear from folks who have >> already tried. Thanks

>

>I haven't done it with freeze spray, but I've physically dug one out.
>I got a pack of corn pads, and stacked two of them, with the hole over >the plantar wart. After a few days or a week or so, the wart was just >sticking right up there, so I went at it. I sliced the protruding top >part off with a razor blade (yes, it hurt like a bastard), and pulled >the core out of my foot with various tweezers and pliers. It gave up, >but its little buddy showed up just a few years ago (it had been close >to 40 years since I got rid of the last one). Some guy told me to cover >it with adhesive tape – that white stuff from the pharmacy – and that it >would go away. Duct tape might work there. What happened with mine (the >new one – the old one that I ripped out by the roots never came back) was >that when I checked under the tape, the main wart had diminished, but >there were about 20 incipient little baby warts all around it. So I took >the tape off and decided to try to heal it by Will Power, which seems to >be working so far. :-)

>

>According to Louise L. Hay, plantar warts are a symptom of anger at >the foundation of your understanding – what the 'Hay', it worked >for me!

>

Re: Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

They're a symptom of a virus, likely caused by walking around outside barefoot.

John

---

• References:

◆ Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

◇ From: snovotill

◆ Re: Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

◇ From: Rich Grise

• Prev by Date: LED Problem

• Next by Date: Re: LED Problem

• Previous by thread: Re: Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

• Next by thread: Re: Super Cold Spray – for wart removal?

• Index(es):

◆ Date

◆ Thread