

Re: Fast NPN/PNP transistors for a totempole driver

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006-01/msg03864.html>

- From: "Klaus Kragelund" <klausvik@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 22 Jan 2006 00:12:53 -0800
-

Fred Bloggs skrev:

>>
>> I have a 74HCT14 hex inverter driving a NPN/PNP (BC847/BC857) totempole
>> stage connected to GND and 5V
>
> Excuse me...but a PNP/NPN combo is not a "totempole." Who the hell knows > what this person is asking? I hope he communicates to himself better > than this- he will be stuck forever.
>
> [snip]

Sorry for that. The confusion was on my part. In the beginning was using an inverted totempole. That is pull-up resistor (because I don't care about the risetime) and a PNP to sink to ground (fast)

Regards

Klaus

- References:
 - ◆ Fast NPN/PNP transistors for a totempole driver
◇ From: Klaus Kragelund
 - ◆ Re: Fast NPN/PNP transistors for a totempole driver
◇ From: Fred Bloggs
- Prev by Date: Re: Favorite electronics movies
- Next by Date: Re: Distance Learning Class in Transistor Theory
- Previous by thread: Re: Fast NPN/PNP transistors for a totempole driver
- Next by thread: Any OR gates with good noise immunity?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date

Re: Fast NPN/PNP transistors for a totempole driver

◆ Thread