Note only the interesting electronics posts get 2 and 3 replies typically, but the Ass-Fest has 88 and growing.

It's not too difficult to derive what the interests are, and what the expertise is in.

What I needed to know was to use a filter in a newsreader which I'll have to download, and not use google groups, then the conversation will take place among people who don't have such dire need for a better view of themselves.
