It's quite sad, really. I think whoever our foul-fingered friend is, he is either tarnishing someone's reputation, or clearly needs a psych consult.

What he's going to get is a visit from the Springfield, MA police department for the death threat he left on my answering machine, along with his phone number on my caller ID. Not the sharpest knife in the drawer is that boy.

Given his personality and interest in missile-type matériel, you may have a legitimate concern.

Best regards,

Don't you just love it when people leave threats on your answering machine?

"N" and I were sitting here at my desk, when the phone rang... MAJOR woman's magazine flunkey (a female)... I asked "N" if she were interested, she said no, I relayed the message and hung up.

We left for dinner, flunkey calls back and left a message on the answering machine... using some cuss words that even I didn't recognize ;-)

I called the cops, they came and took the tape.

Chicago cops called the next day saying she would be prosecuted. Magazine called later to assure me that she was fired as well.

But I feel slighted by "engineer" (aka Geoffrey Gallo <geoffreygallo@xxxxxxxx>).

He only sent me an E-mail saying, "You are a class A fucking asshole".

To which I replied, "Nope. Class AAA ;-)"
