Re: square bullets

Source: http://sci.tech−archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006−04/msg03350.html

- From: John Larkin <jjlarkin@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
- Date: Sun, 23 Apr 2006 11:30:26 −0700

On Mon, 24 Apr 2006 01:05:58 +0800, Spehro Pefhany
<speffSNIP@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

> On Sun, 23 Apr 2006 09:29:12 −0700, John Larkin
> <jjlarkin@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:
>
> > I was typing a datasheet in Word, and it decided at some point to > > change all my "features" bullets from OK round things to ugly square > > things. And it now refuses to change them back. And now this 2−page > > document likes to lock up and freeze Word now and then.
> >
> > To Microsoft, Bill Gates, and the entire Word team: you code crap.
> >
> > John
>
> Yeah, but it's done with proper software 'methodologies'. Maybe try > saving as RTF and re−opening.

OOPs, very appropriate.

Yeah, maybe I could do that, then cut/paste the graphics. What a pain.

If I turn off the bullets in the features list of the damaged doc (it lets me do that!) and cut/paste the text list into another document, the bullet problem still follows the list! How did they manage that?

John

.