

Re: Can a cell phone set off a car alarm?

Re: Can a cell phone set off a car alarm?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006-05/msg04084.html>

- From: szekeres@xxxxxxxx (GregS)
 - Date: Tue, 23 May 2006 12:57:48 GMT
-

In article <4dfrqvF1a7bf7U1@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, Robert Latest <boblatest@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

["Followup-To:" header set to sci.electronics.design.]
On Mon, 22 May 2006 18:16:09 GMT,
GregS <szekeres@xxxxxxxx> wrote in Msg. <e4sv5a$hmb$1@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

I would be lying down or bumping against something and my truck would start.
My truck, a Dodge Dakota, louder than most, can easily be heard indoors.

Good thing you didn't park it with first gear in and without handbrake like I do.

They don't start unless they are in park. They also shut off after 7 minutes.
Manuals require an unengaged sensor.

greg

.