

Re: (Off topic) Cyberwar question

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006-09/msg01213.html>

- From: "Frithiof Andreas Jensen" <frithiof.jensen@xx>
 - Date: Wed, 6 Sep 2006 17:26:48 +0200
-

"Michael A. Terrell" <mike.terrell@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message <news:44FB19B7.5191A593@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> rules.. The bar down the street can't tell people its ok to use your restroom, but it doesn't stop the drunks from pissing on your house like an ignorant troll who tries to piss on every newsgroup they pass.

HowEver: The whip teaches!

From personal experience a run of electric fence (commercial, approved unit, of course) along where the drunks usually relieve themselves works wonders in solving that problem in a swift, effective and summary manner. Keeps The Dog in too!

The only sad part is that, while the fence is OK since it is legally signposted e.t.c. (although the signs are "unfortunately" invisible in the dark), adding a camera to the setup would be illegal.

.