That's a rather old version – think about upgrading to SeaMonkey 1.0.6.

Yes, but life has taught me that if something works then don't try to fix it. Because doing that usually creates grief.

....then there's Murphy who says that your exact problem is due to one of the numerous patches they have made since. <http://www.google.com/search?q=inurl:seamonkey+1.7.13> Those of us who do not avail ourselves of advancements have no one else to blame. 8-( See header.

As Eeyore said, in a pinch, there's always Google Groups: <http://groups.google.com/groups/dir?&sel=33656459>

The search engine

<http://groups.google.com/groups/search?q=ingroup:mozilla.support.mozilla-suite+llost+OR+disappeared+OR+disape> turned up this:

http://groups.google.com/group/mozilla.support.mozilla-suite/browse\_frm/thread/2ee48feef506d10f/3d754cccd5256

I'm too lazy to go thru it completely, but if no one responds to your query in that hierarchy, it might be your best bet.

If you get really desperate:
