Thanks, James. I don't think we can pursue much of the rest of this here. Partly because it makes me recall the suffering too clearly; to hear the cries in the night, so to speak. I remember all too clearly those who pursued "the ends justify any means necessary" agendas that horribly hurt and divided the US, financially and politically, as well many others in other countries. They were ruinous then and they have been similarly ruinous now.

Which brings me to addressing myself just to one latter comment above. You say, "I admit to being young at heart, and loathe to assume malice until proven." The team that gradually assembled under this Bush administration had already proven themselves abundantly well.

I'll leave it at that.

I love to cook with wine. Sometimes I even put it in the food.
