

Re: I want to design an electronic woman with big boops, need suggestions.

Re: I want to design an electronic woman with big boops, need suggestions.

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2006-11/msg04823.html>

---

- From: "Michael A. Terrell" <mike.terrell@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 23 Nov 2006 16:13:39 GMT
-

Jim Thompson wrote:

I haven't seen inside the pumps, but I had a couple old retail terminals that used 8031 CPUs with a 1 MHz crystal. If the pump is really slow, its an indication the tank is nearly empty, and you may be pumping the dregs into your tank.

I'm talking of at the end: after replacing nozzle, wait 20 seconds, "Would you like a free car wash?", press NO, wait 20 seconds, "Would you like a receipt?", press YES, wait 20 seconds, "Printing receipt", etc.

That is probably the slow network connection to the processing center that is trying to handle too many transactions. I've seen cash registers take 30 seconds or more to process a credit card, when the network was overloaded. In fact, I scrapped a two year old AMDAHL mainframe about 15 years ago, when it could no longer keep up with the load for the HONOR card ATMs. I've never seen so much silver plated coax in one system, as was used in that AMDAHL system.

A friend of mine is shutting his station down to replace the tanks and pumps. It will be closed for two weeks, and cost him over $200,000. Talk about a bad month for business. :( I ran into him the other day, while on Jury duty. He was forced to close his business for the duration, because the judge wouldn't excuse him. He runs the station by himself, so he lost at least one day of business, and pissed off a lot of his customers.

I don't get called. I told them the next time they insist that I show, I will file a class action suit seeking remuneration for EXACT

Re: I want to design an electronic woman with big boops, need suggestions.

Re: I want to design an electronic woman with big boobs, need suggestions.

loss of income ;→)

The judge denied his lawyer's request, stating that his loss of income was not a hardship. I told P.J. to find pictures of all the judges and post them in the window of his station, stating they were permanently banned from his property, and why. A lot of small business people are tired of these morons doing whatever the hell they please, because they can get away with it.

I was told to send a copy of the front page of my VA disability where it states, "This individual will never be able to work again", and I would be taken off permanently, for medical reasons.

—
Service to my country? Been there, Done that, and I've got my DD214 to prove it.
Member of DAV #85.

Michael A. Terrell
Central Florida

.