

Re: Evil Designers Guide to Copying Patents

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2007-03/msg06304.html>

- From: Dirk Bruere at NeoPax <dirk.bruere@xxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Fri, 23 Mar 2007 22:40:51 +0000
-

John Fields wrote:

On Thu, 22 Mar 2007 20:30:57 +0000, Dirk Bruere at NeoPax <dirk.bruere@xxxxxxxxx> wrote:

The judge is the one who can throw it out of court before a jury is even called.

The point being, everything not explicitly forbidden is permissible.

But, you seem to forget that patent infringement and copyright violation are explicitly forbidden. By law.

You well know it's not as simple as that.

All copyrights and patents get you is entry to the court, providing you have enough money.

And, more importantly, by ethics, since what isn't yours isn't yours to use as you see fit.

There's no such thing in business.

The rules are written down and interpreted by the courts.

That's the beginning and end of it.

I don't understand why that's such a difficult concept to come to terms with, since if someone took something of yours that was valuable, without your permission, and sold it for their own gain without even giving you credit for it, I'd expect that you'd be unhappy with that.

Re: Evil Designers Guide to Copying Patents

Wouldn't you be?

Yes.

So?

Dirk

Dirk

<http://www.onetribeme.uk> – The UK's only occult talk show

Presented by Dirk Bruere and Marc Power on ResonanceFM 104.4 <http://www.resonancefm.com>

.