The Bushists simply believe that their Beloved Infallible Leader is perfect and can do no wrong – anyone who fails to acknowledge his perfect Infallibility is an infidel, don't you
see? </sarcasm>

Nice Rich. :-)

Re: Freeman Dyson on heresy

I suspect that even Jim will admit that Bush hasn't handled his presidency as well as he might have, at times making boneheaded decisions that have hindered his effectiveness.

You might have to get him a few glasses of wine first, of course!

It will be interesting to see how history remembers him...

We like to build monuments for our tyrants.

Bush is hardly the worst. I say he doesn't get a monument.

They already built a monument to Nixon, it is just a matter of time.

Perhaps, 50 years from now, there will be monuments to Bush in the democratic states of Iran and Syria and Saudi Arabia.

That there will be monuments to Bush – most likely in the form of smoking craters – is more likely than that any one of those free states will be democratic, or even as nearly democratic as the current U.S. of A.
