

Re: How to develop a random number generation device

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2007-09/msg01604.html>

- From: MooseFET <kensmith@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 09 Sep 2007 16:21:24 -0700
-

On Sep 9, 1:48 pm, John Larkin
<jjlar...@xx> wrote:
[...]

Watch dogs don't always recover the system from a glitch. If you are storing data in battery back RAM or flash, you need to be sure that wrong values don't cause things to hang in some non-recoverable way.

One of my programming rules is that data should never be able to crash code.

The assignment statement is more dangerous than a GOTO.

.