

Re: progress in operating systems

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2007-10/msg00027.html>

- From: AZ Nomad <aznomad.2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 01 Oct 2007 02:16:47 GMT
-

On Sun, 30 Sep 2007 10:57:54 -0700, Jeff Liebermann <jeffl@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

Eeyore <rabbitsfriendsandrelations@xxxxxxxxxxx> hath wroth:

So she also ignored the oil light ?
Graham

Yep. She also apparently ignored the valve clatter just before it blew. I don't recall her mentioning any smoke.

What I found amazing is that she refused to let any of the full service gas station attendants look under the hood as she assumed they were all crooks and would intentionally "find something wrong". This was still in the days when the station attendants would still offer to check your oil. Besides, her new car was suppose to only be serviced by the dealer, at least until the warranty expired.

There was some kind of legal battle between her and the dealer. I

What was her name? In what court were the papers filed?
This will be on public record ...

if you're not still making it up as you go along.