

Re: Prototyping?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2007-11/msg00095.html>

- From: Ben Jackson <ben@xxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 01 Nov 2007 17:47:42 -0500
-

On 2007-10-30, Joerg <notthisjoergsch@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

Depends. When you want to do unorthodox things a CPLD or FPGA doesn't cut it.

If you want to prototype with CPLDs and FPGAs, just get a dev board. You can generally find one with the right combination of common peripherals already on it. Much cheaper and faster than designing your own board...

—
Ben Jackson AD7GD
<ben@xxxxxxx>
<http://www.ben.com/>