

Re: Airbus pic

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.design/2008-02/msg01365.html>

- From: Richard Henry <pomerado@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 11 Feb 2008 18:13:49 -0800 (PST)
-

On Feb 11, 10:23 am, "Joel Koltner" <zapwireDASHgro...@xxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

"Richard Henry" <pomer...@xxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:ce8cc279-a04c-427a-b567-5c490c5eef8c@xx

On Feb 10, 9:44 pm, T <nospam.k...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

Oh yes, I took all the proxy logs with me on a couple CD's when I left that place.

You have just admitted to having committed a felony.

How can you know that for a fact?

Even if he violated company policy in taking those CDs he might still be protected by various "whistleblower" laws.

If he wanted to play whistleblower he could have saved the data in an encrypted file on a network drive that he knew would be backed up.
Then he would not have had to steal the CD or the information.

A likely result of his theft is that the CD evidence would be suppressed by a judge at the request of his golfing buddy lawyer.