Now, lets get to work on this standard format."

Am I the only one who finds it a little odd that you can send in your taxes for free... after which they'll most likely be OCR'd and fed into a computer for analysis... whereas eFiling your taxes, in most cases, costs ~$20? How is it that the option that results in less work for the government costs more for the citizen?

They (over)paid huge sums for consultants to create the website..
