Sennheiser seems to be very good about making pads for its older 'phones available. In my experience, the foam pads are good for perhaps 5 years of occasional use, and then (yes) they tend to get crumbly.

Only a few months ago, I purchased two sets of replacement pads for my venerable HD-424 'phones, which I think I originally bought back in the early 1980s. They're around $5 per set, I believe.

Try <http://www.sennheiserusa.com/>, click on "Shop" and then "Parts".

Very different and much cheaper than the one I found on eBay for the HD480:
