I have no information on modifying the fax machine itself, but you could always do what I do. I have a computer which is dedicated as a fax machine. I use WinFaxPro, and when a fax comes in, it displays the fax. If I don't want the fax, I simply delete it without printing.

One thing I like about my setup is that when I receive a fax, in addition to saving it on the dedicated computer, it also e-mails it to me, so wherever I am, even continents away, I get all faxes – in this case, even the junk ones.

Of course, calling the 800 number to delete your fax number only serves to get more of the junk.
