

Re: How to rust proof underwater alligator clips?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.misc/2005-07/msg00240.html>

- From: "exxos" <exxos@xxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 21 Jul 2005 12:25:55 +0100
-

<jilss@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:jZtDe.13895\$TU.4601@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

> Greetings, All
>
> I 'm doing some under water test but my alligator clips are rusting due to > the fact that they are not > coated with rust proof materials. Does anyone know which material to use > to rust proof alligator clips > (I purchased them from radio shack) The alligator clips are used to > transmit voltage underwater but they rust after a day.
>
> If I paint them with a rust proof material, the material will still have > to be able to conduct electricity > any ideas what i can use?
>
>
> Thanks
>
>

how about conductive silver paint ? I dont think that will rust but not totally sure on that.

chris

-
- References:
 - ◆ How to rust proof underwater alligator clips?
◇ From: jilss
 - Prev by Date: Re: ringing with mosfets problems
 - Next by Date: Re: ringing with mosfets problems
 - Previous by thread: Re: How to rust proof underwater alligator clips?

Re: How to rust proof underwater alligator clips?

- Next by thread: Re: How to rust proof underwater alligator clips?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread