Web's Best Friend publishes daily ratings to rated newsgroups to assist users, software products, and search engines in both avoiding newsgroups with consistently problematic/irrelevant content and in finding those with relevant content. The idea is create a global flight to quality, decreasing readership of primarily spam/scam filled groups while increasing participation in quality groups.

If you feel strongly (good or bad) about this group's content, or would like to see how other readers feel about it, please visit the group's rating page at:

While you're there, you can also rate any URL (such as an auction, the quality of the person in an online dating profile, etc), chat rooms, Wikis – just about anything – and edit the description in realtime for all to see.

What a crock of shit.

You're nothing but a bunch of goddam SPAMmers.
