

Re: Report this spam to: groups-abuse@google.com

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.misc/2006-04/msg00108.html>

- From: Simon Scott <simon_nospam@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 18 Apr 2006 19:51:50 +0800
-

Michael A. Terrell wrote:

Simon Scott wrote:

2 things:

1) recall you called me a dumbass first..... dumbass

Did you have to take off your shoes to count to two? You really are a meathead.

uhuh.

2) Your friend has beaten a hasty retreat, cos he knows Im right

Who beat a retreat, and what proof do you have that they retreated?

Given the hundreds of spam posts we have received in the last day, why are you arguing with me? Its obvious google can do nothing about it, even before you look at the specifics of the technology.

Gee, there were over 2600 spews dumped on news:sci.electronics.design this morning, and not a one came from Google, moron. They were all

Re: Report this spam to: groups-abuse@google.com

OK, once again – GOOGLE IS NOT THE USENET. So what if none came from google?
THEY STILL CAME!

posted through the same African news server. I see that you are posting through an Australian news server, which says a whole lot about you and How so? Being Australian makes me ignorant?

your ignorance. You have a DSL account, and are posting from an IP of:
202-72-168-246 which gives the following information:

Thanks, but Im aware of my own whois info. What did this prove?

The usenet is still routinely spammed. You are still wrong. Google is powerless to stop it, since GOOGLE IS NOT USENET.

And you call me a meathead? Nice one.

.