Want to make money for surfing the net?

I know what you must be thinking, great another cash scam, I thought the same at first too but this is real and legal! This is not spam either lol.

There is a website that will pay you money in order to use their search engine and it actually gives good results when searching! I know this first hand by using it and it doesn't matter what country you are from.

The site at the moment is in its beta phase yet is still stable and there are some useful options available like they ebay typo search which helps buyers get the product they want cheaper because someone has spelt the product wrong therefore causing less people to bid on it!

Anyway enough of that I guess ur wanting to know how it works eh? Well basically the company will pay you to search the net using their browser at a fair rate (rather small.. but sure beats getting nothing!). There is however a way around this small problem.. and thats to refer other people, the more you refer the bigger percentage reward you get!

Here is an example say you earn around average $0.25 an hour judging by casual activity surfing using their browser that adds up to $180 a month, Ok so that still isn't all that much really is it so what if you refer 10 people and they surf casually the percentage is $0.15 an hour per referral thats around $1080 a month but thats not all say if the people you referred also refer people you also get a percentage of that $0.05 an hour which can add up to $720 a month.

This works and its fairly easy logic to guess as to why, this is not a pyramid scheme it is just business, you basically get paid to use a product over something such as google or yahoo and paid to help refer, so in a sense you are advertising which is perfectly legal think about it it makes sense.

To get paid there are a manner of different methods but it is best to use paypal since it is fast and this company will send your earnings directly to your account all you need to give them is your paypal email no information will be collected on you.

You can see how easy it would be to make big bucks as the number of people you can refer it unlimited! But make sure you understand you must use the search engine or get no money same with the people you refer, it takes teamwork but together you will get each other rich!
