Back in the Way Back, when using Win9X, one feature I liked about using Nero (Full version) was that after installing Nero, there was another context menu when you right-clicked on the CD drive. It read "Volumes" and let you switch between the data volume and the audio volume. When I was pulling tracks from multiple CDs in Nero it wouldn't list the songs on mixed-mode CDs until I did this. I just checked in XP Pro, and I don't have the option. I also don't have a mixed-mode CD handy either...
