

Re: Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.repair/2005-05/msg01159.html>

- From: Sam Goldwasser <sam@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 18 May 2005 20:29:25 -0400
-

dkuhajda@xxxxxxxx writes:

- > No they are not the same.
- > T5 – time delay
- > F5 – fast blow

In any case, it's highly likely that the fuse went ping because something else blew and putting a new one in will do the same thing. But it's worth trying – once.

--- sam

.

- Follow-Ups:

- ◆ Re: Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?
◇ From: Kax

- References:

- ◆ Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?
◇ From: Kax
- ◆ Re: Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?
◇ From: dkuhajda

- Prev by Date: Re: Sony DvD repair
- Next by Date: Re: RCA CTC 203 Haeter Filaments
- Previous by thread: Re: Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?
- Next by thread: Re: Help needed: Is a T5A H250V fuse the same as a F5L 250V?
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread