

Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.repair/2005-11/msg00424.html>

- From: Karyudo <karyudo_usenet@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 09 Nov 2005 04:22:45 GMT
-

On 8 Nov 2005 04:51:39 -0800, "Tech Data" <tvdoc50@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

>Here's an answer to all. Forget it. And to the 'non tech' who thinks I >should refund every whiney person who can't find what they want out of >30 gigs, you miss the big picture. This is a SHARING site. While >members are welcome to take what I have to offer, they're also expected >to share if someone needs what they have. As far as 'cheery refunds'???
>I've got several members bragging they got they're moneys worth in 20 >seconds. You want testimonials, I'm a moderator on one of the best >forums on the internet, www.wa6ati.com . Scroll down to the Bulletin >Board link and ask to join(it's free) My announcements are at the top >thread, WITH HIS APPROVAL. Join or not but I'm not going to spend 40 >days and 40 nights trying to convince people to spend 15.00 for God's >sake. Now, as far as the laser disc, the closest I have is a CLD-S320.
>The rest are more current DVD players by Pioneer. As I stated, the >Pioneer section is mostly newer, high end products. That's not to say >that one of my members wouldnt have it though.
>www.techdata-kicksass.net

I can respect that. I don't think the casual dabbler such as myself is who you're looking for, and I don't think people like me are looking for what you've got — at least not how you've got it. That's fine.

However, I do feel sorta disappointed that you've got quite the treasure trove of stuff (apparently), but that the "closed shop" mentality lives on amongst you and other fellow tech assist people. I don't mean that in a bitter way (well, not exactly); I just mean that in my opinion you're not providing a service that's of value to much of anyone but people in the business already. Which is too bad, since I suspect there are a lot more of us dabblers than there are of you pros.

Sincere thanks for your research on my Pioneer LD player manual — I know it's going to be a tricky find.

.

- Follow-Ups:

Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current

- ◆ Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
◇ From: Leonard Caillouet

• References:

- ◆ 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
◇ From: Tech Data
 - ◆ Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
◇ From: Mary
 - ◆ Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
◇ From: Tech Data
-
- Prev by Date: Re: noisy Hitachi camcorder
 - Next by Date: Re: Best Buy and Geek Squad computer privacy issues
 - Previous by thread: Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
 - Next by thread: Re: 30 gigs of schematics, all brands and current
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread