

Re: Source for inexpensive speaker foam surrounds?

Re: Source for inexpensive speaker foam surrounds?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.repair/2007-01/msg01761.html>

---

- From: Andy Cuffe <acuffe@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 29 Jan 2007 10:36:08 -0800
-

On Mon, 29 Jan 2007 10:20:56 -0600, "Rob Mills" <robmills@xxxxxxx> wrote:

"Sam Goldwasser" <sam@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:6wy7nmak07.fsf@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

I need to refoam a couple of 8 inch woofers but they aren't really worth much. What I've found at <http://www.simply-speakers.com/> is order of $25. Any suggestions or if you have a couple sitting around asking to be glued.

I have never used them but have been thinking about ordering some, just trying to think what else I need to make up a $25 minimum order but Mat Electronics (<http://www.matelectronics.com/>) has them el-cheapo. The 10 inch ones are less than $2 ea. RM ~

PS, Should you order from them before I do, let me know how it goes. I'll post my experience here if I get my act together and make an order.

I've ordered from them several times. You should check to make sure they are in stock. More than once I've added a bunch of things to meet the minimum order only to receive everything but the surrounds I placed the whole order for. On my last order, they sent be the wrong size and I'm still waiting for the replacements they promised me (they're out of stock). The good news is that they are cheap and work fine if you can get them.

Andy Cuffe

Re: Source for inexpensive speaker foam surrounds?

Re: Source for inexpensive speaker foam surrounds?

acuffe@xxxxxxxxx