

Billy Mays TV Filter Needed

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.repair/2008-03/msg01761.html>

- From: dannydee@xxxxxxxxxxxxx
 - Date: Fri, 28 Mar 2008 09:57:26 -0500
-

Do we have any electronics experts out here who can develop a Billy Mays TV filter? What's needed is a filter which will automatically mute the sound whenever a yelling Billy Mays commercial comes on.

If you're not familiar with Billy Mays, he's the dark bearded fat man who can not speak in a normal tone, only yells and screams. He does commercials for Oxy Clean, Hercules Hook, and all sorts of other useless junk. The ideal solution would be to hang him from a hercules hook, and while giving him an oxy clean enema, remove his vocal chords. But that's not likely to happen.

I'm getting really tired of manually hitting the mute button on my remote everytime his abrasive and most irritating yelling voice invades my serenity. There's got to be a way to automatically detect his obnoxious voice and instantly mute the sound for the duration of the commercial.

If anyone can develop one of these, they could become wealthy. Please post the schematic if you know a way to block him.

One final comment. If you hate this guy as much as most of us do, NEVER, EVER buy anything he advertises. Besides most if not all the products he promotes are junk, (recently proven by consumer groups). You do not want to support his products. If sales drop, his commercials will also be dropped, and he'll fade out of out televisions and never be heard from again.

Until then, we need a Mays Filter !!!!

Dan

.