

Re: Attention Bush fans ~ Bush says global warming is real

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.energy.hydrogen/2004-09/0145.html>

From: Bill Ward (bwardREMOVE_at_ix.netcom.com)

Date: 09/02/04

Date: Thu, 02 Sep 2004 19:41:35 GMT

On Thu, 2 Sep 2004 18:41:18 GMT, "Fred B. McGalliard"
<frederick.b.mcgalliard@boeing.com> wrote:

>
> "Bill Ward" <bwardREMOVE@ix.netcom.com> wrote in message > news:4137426a.477224@localhost...
> ...
>> *Isn't it kind of already that way, Fred? If you want your >> guy to win, you have to donate big time to his campaign.
>> Whoever gets the most money for advertising and promotion >> has the best shot at being elected.*
>
> *Of course we are talking about a lot more billions than the elections take, > but still an interesting point. If you outspend your opponent by some > amount, how much more incompetent do you have to be to come out about even?
> Are we really that easily swayed by a few really dumb ads? Shoot. This > republic is in danger. More even than Bush/Kerry, it is in danger of loosing > the participation of the minds and hearts of the citizens. I wonder if that > is why it is so depressing to me?*

One of the most vulnerable areas in a representative form of government is the electorate itself. The way to take over is by getting control of the education system to dumb down a large part of the population, then convincing voters they are dependent on the government and its programs for their very existence.

But don't worry, that couldn't happen here.

Regards,

Bill Ward