Don,

Maybe you would like Giffels to construct the facility in your front yard instead of depicting it on photo. Certainly with all the methane coming from your home it would be a raging success.

"Marc", are you the writer of this?:

Guess what, all of you were right. SHEC Labs out of Saskatoon Canada has been scamming investors for the past 14 months. They were selling their shares at 2.00 and 2.25 and only receiving .75 per share. They were paying out 62 percent in commissions and they Did not disclose any of this to shareholders. The company knew they were scamming and did nothing to stop it. Too bad, because they seemed to be on the right track. They also did not send any paperwork to their European investors as far as participating in a private placement nor did they check the qualifications of each investor to see if they were in a risk tolerance group to invest in a start up like SHEC.

Oh well

You're quite a wierd one, Mr. Genius! (LOL)

Sixty percent is actually quite low for a Canadian Penny Stock.

The usual goal is that ONE HUNDRED percent of the receipts go to the underwriters.
