It's amazing how you can dig up old information and post it as if it's something new. (The article is new, the test was last fall.)

Note: from that email that Tami Allison sent to you in confidence, but you posted publicly:

along with all sorts of other nasty claims about Shec and its principals.

So, not only are the contents of that article old, but according to what you claim is insider information, the contents are also misleading at best.

Marc, you're fooling nobody but yourself.
