Then please explain exactly why she got fired.

Was it for being stupid enough to communicate in confidence with a scumbag like yourself, when she probably should have known that you'd post her private note to you all over the world?

Or was it for exposing their little scam?

You can't be held liable for slander if it's true.

Oh, by the way, you're a fruitcake.

Nope. I had never heard of SHEC before you showed up here. Your zealous praise of it raised my initial doubt. Looking into the details on their web site increased my doubt further. And then your posting claims that SHEC is a scam, and posting purported insider information that seems to support those claims solidified my doubt.

SHEC may very well be a legitimate company. But based upon everything you've provided to date, it sure looks like a scam.

Exactly how do you plan to make cash? Do you really expect anybody to invest in SHEC after hearing you call it a scam and reading the damning insider information you post that seems to support your claim that it's a scam?
