Back in the 1960s and part of the 1970s, I drove a bread truck for Sunbeam Bakery. One day I saw on tv or in the local newspaper Joseph Newman was going to put on a display of one of his energy machines. That particular day, I hurried up on my bread route and I went down town. I saw an electric fan (I picked the electric fan up myself and I looked it over) he had on display there. The electric fan was working. I saw no hidden wires and the way that electric fan was designed and built, obviously there was no hidden battery or batteries. I was there, I saw it myself. Tell me,,,, what did I see?
