You are the one making claims without supporting numbers.

It won't be done with lasers for a very long time, if ever. The efficiency stinks. At that, the noon sun where I live delivers that much power to every square 35 meters on a side. I don't have any volcanoes. In fact, I go out and garden in this 'very intense' radiation seemingly without harm.

Do you have a cell phone? If so, why don't you consider that dangerous?

Best, Dan.
