

Re: Peano's space-filling curve

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.fractals/2004-06/0173.html>

From: Shmuel (Seymour J.) Metz (spamtrap_at_library.lspace.org.invalid)

Date: 06/14/04

Date: Mon, 14 Jun 2004 02:42:41 -0300

In <2io3j8Fp4miqU5@uni-berlin.de>, on 06/09/2004

at 10:57 AM, "John Morgan" <john.morgan@REMOVECAPSataraxie.fr> said:

>When the car salesman says, "It's a nice little runner, sir" and I >find I can't start the engine, and he tells me that when I do start >the engine I'll discover that it's a nice little runner, should I >part with my money at this point?

No. You should take a driver training class and come back when you know how to drive a car. Then, and only then, will you be able to take it for a test drive. Blaming the car or the salesman because you stuck the key in the glove compartment won't help.

--

Shmuel (Seymour J.) Metz, SysProg and JOAT
Unsolicited bulk E-mail will be subject to legal action. I reserve the right to publicly post or ridicule any abusive E-mail.
Reply to domain Patriot dot net user shmuel+news to contact me. Do not reply to spamtrap@library.lspace.org