

Re: The Grand Unified Theory! C and C Please!

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.geology/2004-09/0405.html>

From: Jonathan (jon_at_write.com)

Date: 09/09/04

Date: Thu, 9 Sep 2004 19:40:53 -0400

"Chris S." <chrisks@NOSPAM.udel.edu> wrote in message
news:i230d.112$PJ3.79@trndny09...

> Jonathan wrote:

>

> > "Chris S." <chrisks@NOSPAM.udel.edu> wrote in message

> > news:m5T%c.6136$dC4.1712@trndny06...

> >

> > > Jonathan wrote:

> > > [snip nonsense]

> > >

> > > As fascinating as you think that might be, please don't post it to > > > comp.robotics.misc, since it has little to no practical relevance here.

> >

> > I'll post where I like. Take a hike...and tell 'em jonny sent ya.

> > Oh, but I do apologize for posting something you're incapable > > of understanding, but that's your fault.

> >

> > Jonathan

>

> It was friendly advice.

Oh please, you call it nonsense with even reading it. That's your idea of being friendly? You tell a complete stranger posting in good faith to take a hike, and you consider that friendly?

> No need to react childishly.

Childish? You can't even understand a simple troll, a dare to read and respond to the post.

> But you're right, > please don't post to any of the groups I mentioned. I'd not wish your > nonsense imposed on those who might give your theories an honest look.

> You should post here, where you'll be soundly ignored, as well you > should be.

sci.geo.geology: Re: The Grand Unified Theory! C and C Please!

And again you fail to post any sort of reasoning behind this statement. Why should I be ignored? And why do you feel it appropriate to appoint yourself guardian of the group? I doubt your reply is, at heart, selfless.

But I've been wrong many times before.

Jonathan

s