

Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?

Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.geology/2005-04/msg00354.html>

---

- From: "don findlay" <don@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: 22 Apr 2005 07:58:53 -0700
-

George wrote:

> "Simon Lord" <simon@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
> news:d605c2e9.0504220423.35b1c92@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>> Looking for a forum that might help me ID a stone I picked up – it >> looks as though it could be a fossilised animal body part.
>
> Post a link to some photographs of it, and we'll have a look.

(This should be good.)

.

---

• References:

- ◆ Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?
    ◇ From: Simon Lord
- ◆ Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?
    ◇ From: George

- Prev by Date: Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?
- Next by Date: Was there really a sudden flooding in Northern Europe around 7700BC?
- Previous by thread: Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?
- Next by thread: Re: Is this the right place to ID a fragment of stone I found?
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread