

Re: Geologists witness 'ocean birth'

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.geology/2005-12/msg00740.html>

- From: "George" <george@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 18 Dec 2005 10:39:30 GMT
-

"Dave Gerecke" <dave.gerecke@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
news:181220051518166702@dave.gerecke@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
> In article <PeWof.627039\$x96.157925@attbi_s72>, George > <george@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:
>
>> "Dave Gerecke" <dave.gerecke@xxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message
>> news:171220052143568378@dave.gerecke@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>>> In article <VA.00000b3c.34af0ecf@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, >>> Aidan Karley <doIlookDAFTenoughTOpost@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> >>> wrote:
>>>
>>>> In article <111220050024062249@dave.gerecke@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>, Dave >>>> Gerecke
>>>> wrote:
>>>>> How long before we see ocean water down Kenya way?
>>>>>
>>>>> pROBABLY A FEW MILLIONS OF YEARS. (Bloody CapsLock key!) Were you >>>>> thinking of holding your breath?
>>>>
>>>> I was thinking that once it – the rift – got so far then you would >>>> have >>>> a wall of water heading down range.
>>>> The photos I have seen show the rift valley as being below sea level.
>>>> Sort of like the Black Sea when it opened.
>>>> dave
>>>>
>>> In fact, there is a place in Ethiopia where the red sea is seeping into >>> the >>> rift (I don't remember the name or location, but I remember it being >>> mentioned on a program about the rift valley a while back.
>>>
>>> George
>> That's what I was remembering!
> So... When is the big splash or rather will there be a big splash?
> dave

I think we've answered that question. Look at the above.

Re: Geologists witness 'ocean birth'

George

.

-
- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Geologists witness 'ocean birth'
 - ◇ From: Dave Gerecke