

Re: Fossil Fish With "Limbs" Is Missing Link, Study Says

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.geology/2006-04/msg00209.html>

---

- From: Aidan Karley <dollookDAFTenoughTOpost@xx>
  - Date: Sat, 22 Apr 2006 22:44:07 +0100
-

In article <hB9Zf.669067\$084.509187@attbi\_s22>, George wrote:

Exactly. So somewhere out there, there should be some of these smaller critters, theoretically speaking.

The insects. Yes, they're there. Early-Devonian for sure, just up the path from my colleague Peter's house. Search on "Rhynie Chert fauna". http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Rhynie\_chert

--
Aidan Karley, FGS
Aberdeen, Scotland,
Location: 57°10'11" N, 02°08'43" W (sub-tropical Aberdeen), 0.021233