

Re: Some of our boys (and girls) made the list!

Re: Some of our boys (and girls) made the list!

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.geology/2006-05/msg00415.html>

- From: Aidan Karley <dollookDAFTenoughTOpost@xx>
 - Date: Mon, 29 May 2006 09:29:19 +0100
-

In article <127kopg8ggvd8a5@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>, Jo Schaper wrote:

6th Worst Job in Science according to Popular Science magazine:
<http://www.popsci.com/popsci/science/806ffb24a5f27010vgnvcm1000004eecbccdrerd/5.html>

3. Kansas Biology Teacher

On the front lines of science's devolution

Much more like "cruel and unusual punishment.

Could a US judge sentence a miscreant Kansas preacher to a year of trying to proselytise in Aberdeen ("Britain's most Godless City", AGAIN!, according to a god-squaddie at the street market on Saturday!)? Or would the ban on "cruel and unusual punishment" kick in, and get him a holiday in Guantanamo instead?

1. Human Lab Rat

Warning: Pesticides are bad for you

Has the guy not been reading the news ... Oh, OK, he was writing late last year. It seems that recruitment to drug trials of various sorts is plummeting in Britain, and likely the rest of the civilised world, because of the near-death of 6 participants in a London drug trial a couple of months ago. I'd expect the prices to have gone up a lot, particularly amongst that standby of the summer vacation student.

--

Aidan Karley, FGS
Aberdeen, Scotland

Written at Mon, 29 May 2006 08:39 +0100, but posted later.

.