

sci.geo.meteorology: Re: Crawford meteor crater

Re: Crawford meteor crater

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.geo.meteorology/2004-11/0109.html>

From: R. Martin (russell.martin_at_wdn.com)

Date: 11/14/04

Date: Sun, 14 Nov 2004 01:06:09 GMT

Jenni Kay wrote:

>
> Hi all,
>
> Just learnt that the Crawford Meteor Crater is located just down the road > from us. I would like to fossick for meteor fragments or fragments of ejecta > material. Would appreciate any advice for a beginner like myself.
>
> Cheers,
> Jenni South Australia

You have the wrong NG. Meteorology in our context refers to weather.
Sorry. Try the amateur astronomy NG sci.astro.amateur.

Cheers,
Russell

--

Russell Martin
russell.martin@wdn.com

R. L. Martin and Associates, Consultants in Science and Technology
<http://www.rmartin.com>

All too often the study of data requires care.